Hancock School Board orders science research center plans

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Dead zones of water-retaining lawn in front of Hancock High School may one day be a maze of trails and wetland ponds where students come for field studies and to perform science projects.

The Hancock County School Board approved the spending of $575 for the La Terre Foundation Interpretive Center design and promotional package.

Aside from the creation of plans for the construction of a center, the package price includes help with funding, grants, and the coordination of volunteer action and construction.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois stated, the cost estimated for the center is between $3,000 and $15,000.

She said the high school science departments would be responsible for the center's maintenance, which is considered minimum.

Bourgeois added, the center would be an enhancement to the high school science departments, and will assist elementary students in nature studies.

A volunteer for the pond digging has already come forward, she reported, and the Vo-Tech Center has offered assistance with construction of walkways and learning stations.

The board approved Kenneth Kothmann as transportation director for the district, replacing retired administrator Donald Hillman.

Rail freight service approaches shutdown

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

As a result of a strike by the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, railroads across the country are either shut down or shutting down.

American Association of Railroads (AAR) spokesperson Ann Bennof reported Wednesday evening all major railroads have shut down in response to the strike on CSX transportation.

"Because the railroads operate on an interchange system," Bennof explained, "when one goes down it affects all but the smaller local or regional lines."

"Freight traffic has virtually stopped at this time."

CSX director of communication Richard Bussard reported the dispute with the machinists has been ongoing for a couple of years. "Why they chose CSX, over any of the other railroads involved in the same negotiations, I do not know," he added.

David Marquar, a maintenance worker with CSX stated, "The strike was with one railroad. When the machinists went on strike, the railroads joined and shut down, forcing this to a national problem. Now Congress can step in and force them back to work."

Bennof stated, "Meetings have been going on all day in Congress over what to do."

Waveland ok's tri-county plan

Public hearing unveils proposed county plan

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bidding a contract and opting for rural mailbox collection are the two main components of a county waste disposal plan unveiled by engineers Lloyd and David Compton at a public hearing Tuesday.

About 30 people, including city and county officials, attended the meeting at the Civic Center. Lloyd Compton opened the meeting with the comment, "First, let me point out that your supervisors are not responsible for this."

He was referring to new state and federal regulations that require counties to submit a 20-year disposal plan by July 9. Compton quickly reviewed the regulations, explaining the new laws pertain mainly to the design, opening, operation and closures of landfills, and environmental issues (air and groundwater quality, leachate control, etc.) that pertain to landfill operations.

He said the county is "close to being finished with the plan, to be able to make it on schedule."

THE PLAN

He recommended the county join with Pearl River and Stone counties to form a regional waste disposal district, to take advantage of lower disposal costs resulting from higher volumes of waste;

—that the district solicit bids for a landfill disposal contract, with the bidders guaranteeing that the landfill to be used meets state and federal standards;

—and that the county and its two cities go to a single waste collection contract, with mailbox collection (garbage pickup at the residents' mailboxes instead of at a convenience center) in the unincorporated areas as well as the municipalities.

Compton said the county and cities, after 1995, will no longer be able to use tax millage to pay garbage collection and disposal costs, but will have to establish a user fee to be paid by all residents receiving the garbage collection/disposal service. He explained the user fee is another state mandate.

He said the average user fee right now is $6.12 per user per

On the mend

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Waveland Board of Aldermen approved a letter of intent to be included in the tri-county waste disposal and minimization plan.

Bay St. Louis and the counties of Pearl River, Stone and Hancock are already included in the proposal.

The motion passed by the aldermen specified the city will remain independent in collections.

Ward 4 alderman Stan Weidman voted in opposition, citing all four disposal options proposed by Hancock as more expensive than what the city presently spends on tonnage disposal of household garbage at the Pecan Grove landfill. The city also utilizes the Standard trash fill site for other waste disposal.

City attorney Lucien Gex stated the price for tonnage is expected to increase dramatically when new federal solid waste regulations are activated in the fall.

He said the new regulations will force the closure of many present dumps and landfill sites. Also, new sites will have to be lined and meet other stipulations, increasing cost to users.

"What you pay today," Gex

Mississippi Economic Commission business development trip to Central America proves fruitful for locals

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

They went, they saw and they want to go back.

A recent business promotion mission hosted by the state Department of Economic Development to Central America proved to be successful for two local businesses and hopefully for Hancock County Port and Harbor Director Harold "Buz" Olsen.

Olsen, Harold Thibodeaux, president of Con Tech Power Systems, and Alex North, export manager for Bay Technical Associates have just returned from a week long trip to Central America.

Flying in and out of Guatemala, Honduras and Costa Rica with 11 other business leaders from the state, the object of the mission was to make available information on what Mississippi has to offer.

"The people we met knew little to nothing of Mississippi until this trip," Olsen stated. "They knew where New Orleans is located, but they had no idea how centrally located Mississippi is to many of their market areas."

As an example, he said, the Central Americans he met did not know that along the Mississippi Gulf Coast there are three active ports and a regional airport.

He reported the trip to be very successful for all concerned.

Thibodeaux, who reported to have returned with two major contract proposals from Costa Rica, stated, "I knew what the trip was going to be like. These countries are expanding and looking for electrification distribution systems as their primary source of power comes from hydro-electric plants."

"I feel we presented to the people of Central America a view of Mississippi which they did not expect, one of a progressive state and vital Coastal area."

—Olsen

the countries become more technologically advanced I anticipate an increase in the market.

"I did meet with a couple of strong distributors, people who know how it all works. Overall I was quite impressed with the number of contacts I made."

He added, "When I returned to the office I found an order from Honduras sitting on my desk."

Special to the Echo

Hancock County statistics on youth pulled together for "Making The Grade Summit" meeting revealed that of the 3,400 youths in this county, 42.4 percent were functionally illiterate; juveniles referred to court or involved in court cases totaled 275.

One-third of our students drop out of school; the teen pregnancy rate is 18.6 percent—the highest of the six Coast counties. In 1989, of the 89 babies born to teenagers in Hancock County, 51 were illegitimate births.

In response to these shocking statistics, the Hancock Community Youth Task Force was formed in 1990. Its mission is to empower the community to facilitate decision-making skills of teens, provide them with wholesome activities, reduce the school dropout rate and curtail incidences of teen pregnancy, drug and alcohol use.

In an effort to find a cost effective means of accomplishing its mission, the Task Force has invited representatives of Boys and Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast to meet and discuss establishing a center in Hancock County.

County graduates 2nd class of firefighters

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Diplomas of certification were passed out Tuesday to 21 volunteer firefighters at the Diamondhead Fire station, marking the completion of the second county-sponsored class.

The course, initiated by county Fire Marshall Jay Marsh, was begun last year as a formal training session in proper fire fighting techniques.

Instructors Diamondhead Fire Chief Don Westbrook and Captain Michael Willumitis stated the course they developed includes 88 hours of field and in-class instructions. State certification requires completion of a 38-hour course.

Willumitis said, "In addition to teaching all the state course offers, the county class covers portable extinguishers, pumper and tanker operations, fire-ground tactics and vehicle firefighting.

"We started with 42, and 21 graduated. Last year we had 20 volunteers complete the course."

Westbrook commented, since the completion of last year's course, he has noticed an opening in the lines of communication between the various departments.

He stated, "Until then, many of these men knew nothing of the other departments. The course introduced them to each other and taught them to work as a team.

"I have noticed in the last year how the men of the different departments call each other when in need more often than in the past.

After finishing his presentation, Compton opened the floor for comments.

Bruce Northridge, representing the Environmental Coalition of Mississippi, asked Compton his opinion of a possible "bottle bill" which will force soft drink companies to take back their bottles as they once did before the advent of the plastic bottle. Compton said he definitely supports the idea.

Stan Weidman, who said he was speaking not as a Waveland alderman but as a private citizen, commented on the closeness of the deadlines and expressed disappointment that the state and federal governments would pass such legislation and give the counties so little time to act on them.

The federal government passed legislation in October 1991, and sent the matter to the states to address, which Mississippi did in its legislative session earlier this year.

WASTE MINIMIZATION

Lloyd Compton had three recommendations concerning minimization:

The county exclude rural areas from curbside recycling because "we think the amount of activity in those areas doesn't warrant it. However, you could have a selected collection site where people could take their recyclables in the county.

We would like to see the cities start curbside recycling in 1993, and we recommend that the cities specifically solicit bids from materials processors because they can control the disposal and marketing of recyclables."

The county bid for collection and disposal of recyclables only, separate from waste collection and disposal.

The county solicit area non-profit organizations' assistance in minimization efforts.

month; that from 1993 to 1995 the cost may increase to $7.75-$9; and that after 1995, the individual household could pay $9-10 per month.

He recommended the Standard landfill site permit be modified to accommodate a necessary change from the trench to the pit method and to rearrange the wetlands mitigation area, but said the county should not open the landfill. Compton told the audience the Standard site would be a buffer measure so the county can guarantee the state it can handle waste disposal for the next 20 years.

He also recommended the city/county collection contract be initiated in 1993, and that the user fee be implemented in 1993-1994.

Another suggestion concerning the plan was, if the three counties join together, all the counties and municipalities extend the expiration dates on their disposal contracts to 1995, when the contract for the City of Picayune's waste disposal expires. According to David Compton, that will enable the tri-county district to enter into one regional contract in 1995.

WASTE MINIMIZATION

Lloyd Compton had three recommendations concerning minimization:

The county exclude rural areas from curbside recycling because "we think the amount of activity in those areas doesn't warrant it. However, you could have a selected collection site where people could take their recyclables in the county.

We would like to see the cities start curbside recycling in 1993, and we recommend that the cities specifically solicit bids from materials processors because they can control the disposal and marketing of recyclables."

The county bid for collection and disposal of recyclables only, separate from waste collection and disposal.

The county solicit area non-profit organizations' assistance in minimization efforts.

He also mentioned yard waste re-use, which both municipalities have already implemented. He said many rural residents already recycle their own yard waste into mulch and compost, so such a program in the unincorporated areas is unnecessary.

After finishing his presentation, Compton opened the floor for comments.

Bruce Northridge, representing the Environmental Coalition of Mississippi, asked Compton his opinion of a possible "bottle bill" which will force soft drink companies to take back their bottles as they once did before the advent of the plastic bottle. Compton said he definitely supports the idea.

Stan Weidman, who said he was speaking not as a Waveland alderman but as a private citizen, commented on the closeness of the deadlines and expressed disappointment that the state and federal governments would pass such legislation and give the counties so little time to act on them.

The federal government passed legislation in October 1991, and sent the matter to the states to address, which Mississippi did in its legislative session earlier this year.

"I believe the cooperation I am seeing between the departments is a direct result of the hours these firefighters have spent together through the past weeks and months."

Another benefit, Westbrook singled out, was the need for certification in the requirements for lowering district insurance ratings.

Westbrook said plans are underway for the installation of dry hydrants throughout the county, and he expects to see progress on the project within a year.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Last week Jane and I had the opportunity to visit Alaska on an "Inside Passage Cruise" on the Island Princess (original Love Boat) and had a wonderful time.

I did overeat a bit, as I gained eight pounds. Now I have to put a little more time at the Walking Track.

On this trip, planned by Hancock Bank Classic Club, there were some 48 folks from the Coast.

Our traveling group from the Bay-Waveland area included the Phillip Scafidis, the Harold Massons and nine from Diamondhead, along with the Frank Hilles, who joined the group in Vancouver.

I never realized there were so many trees in Alaska, and that part of the state is a rain forest.

The land tours we took were at Ketchikan, Juneau, Sitka and Skagway.

Yes, there are still snow and ice on the ground, and more glaciers than I ever imagined.

One of the most interesting tours was a ride on the White Pass & Yukon Railroad.

I could see where White Pass came into the name, as snow and ice are piled over the height of the railcars at the top of the pass.

We visited the Deer Mountain Fish Hatchery at Ketchikan and the Gastineau Salmon Hatchery at Juneau.

One of our bus tours took us to the Portage Valley Glacier Recreation area.

The visitors center is at the foot of the Portage Glacier in the Chugach National Forest.

One thing I noted while in Alaska, it is litter free. The residents of our 49th state are very proud, and properly dispose of their waste.

A visit to Alaska would not be complete without a stop at the famous Red Dog Saloon; and yes, there is sawdust on the floor.

That stuffed 390-pound halibut hanging from the ceiling is very impressive.

We got to see the world's largest collection of totem poles at the Totem Bight State Park out from Ketchikan.

Sitka was the Russian capital of North America.

No visit there is complete without a viewing the performance of the New Archangel Dancers and a tour of St. Michael's Russian Orthodox Cathedral.

Mendenhall Glacier at Juneau was really a thrill and a wonderful place to see the blue ice in the glacier.

It does feel a bit funny when the ship is dodging icebergs and you realize 10% or less is above the water line.

Flowers were many, and I was amazed at how fast everything grows in the short summers of Alaska. By the way, we only had about four hours of darkness each night.

We really enjoyed our vacation, and who knows, we may visit Alaska once again in years to come.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Longo will be missed by many

Dear Editor,

On Friday I was asked to give a TV interview in regard to former Waveland Mayor Johnnie Longo's death. My answer was, "No, I'm not the person to ask, as Johnnie and I had locked horns on many issues."

After I had time to think about it, I realized this was one of Johnnie's greatest gifts; we could have differences of opinions, but it never affected our friendship.

Johnnie, as mayor, always had the people's welfare in mind. He tried very hard not to put burdens on those with fixed incomes, and he will be missed by many.

Waveland needs recycling service

To the Editor,

This may be simplistic, but it would seem to me that one of the most important priorities to which the Waveland rulers should devote their attention is to working out some arrangement for the Waveland citizens to recycle their discarded plastic, aluminum and other metals, glass and bottles, and papers.

Very truly yours,

Water projects clear the way for jobs and more trade

Ten million dollars for a project to widen and deepen the Gulfport Harbor and $6.9 million for a project to divert freshwater from the Mississippi River into the Mississippi Sound were both included in a $21.8 billion Energy and Water Appropriations Bill passed by the House.

In all, South Mississippi stands to receive $24.6 million in funds and benefit from eight water and annual maintenance projects as a result of the legislation, U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor announced.

Working to make South Mississippi more accessible to larger cargo ships and to improve navigability of our waterways is of the utmost importance to the economic well being of our area.

The appropriations bill contains the following provisions and still must be approved by the Senate:

* Widening and deepening of the Gulfport Harbor. This $10 million project to deepen the channel to its desired 36 feet is expected to create an additional 1,600 jobs within the next four years, double commerce at the port, and generate an additional $47 million in revenue. Currently, the economic benefits of the port are estimated to be $75 million and it provides jobs for nearly 3,000 Mississippians.

* The Gulfport Harbor also received $2 million in annual maintenance funds.

* Annual maintenance of the Port of Pascagoula. A $4.6 million maintenance project to dredge areas of the Sound channel, river channel, bar channel and Bayou Casotte. These investments will ensure that the Port of Pascagoula maintains its vital role in shipping bulk cargo, refining oil and producing seafood.

* Pascagoula River Basin. The Pascagoula River basin received $100,000 for pre-engineering design.

* Freshwater Diversion Project. This $56 million project ($6.9 million in 1993) that will divert freshwater from the Mississippi River into the Mississippi Sound is expected to increase oyster production by 2 million pounds a year. Construction could begin on the freshwater diversion project as soon as October of this year, Taylor said.

* Wolf and Jourdan rivers. A $200,000 appropriation to provide pre-engineering design for a project to dredge Pass Christian's Bayou Portage Channel to a desired 8-foot depth and 100-foot width.

* Pearl River. A $736,000 dredging project for maintenance of the Pearl River locks and approach near the Mississippi and Louisiana border.

* Biloxi Harbor. A $88,000 appropriation to provide for annual maintenance of the west approach channel of the harbor.

* The Gulfport Harbor also received $2 million in annual maintenance funds.

** Tidewater is socially unacceptable behavior...

Fordice comments make waves across the state

Gov. Kirk Fordice seems to be suffering from a serious chronic illness. It's called Foot in Mouth disease.

Hardly a day has gone by the past few weeks since the Legislature left town that Captain Kirk hasn't come out with some bizarre utterance in a public gathering, or been rude or insulting to his listeners.

First, early this month

speaking to the Union County

Development Association in

New Albany, with two legislators present, Fordice virtually accused every male member of the Legislature of cheating on their wives.

Fordice boasted that he had taken away number of automobiles assigned to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks that were provided to secretaries at the department

"only because they were girlfriends of legislators."

The secretaries used the state automobiles to go out for lunch, Fordice charged.

They never made a dime for Mississippians," he said.

The New Albany Gazette followed up the Fordice fiasco with an editorial charging that if he had knowledge of any lawmakers' liaisons with WF & P secretaries he should have named them and "not taken an across the board slap" at all legislators.

Next there was the painful episode two weeks ago with the Governor's School students at Columbus, a group that includes some of the best and brightest young people in the state.

Fordice became obviously annoyed at the 11th graders' sharp and pointed questions about subjects ranging from his veto of the 7 cent sales tax bill containing dedicated funds for education to his opposition to a lottery which could also help fund education.

He snapped back at the youngsters, cut some of them off before they completed their questions, and in one case rudely ignored a student's question.

Reminding the students that he was "their" governor, Fordice had this to say of his unexpected election to the office: "I think it's the greatest political phenomenon since I've been on earth."

The Fordice shabby performance before the collection of bright young people who make up the blue-ribbon Governor's School (formerly known as the Math and Science School)

brought a sharp editorial retort

from the Columbus Commercial

Olsen said, though he saw lots of opportunities he expects it will be a bit longer before the Port and Harbor Commission will experience any direct benefits.

"Our problem," he explained, "is getting Miami out of the picture."

"A lot of the people with whom I spoke wish to move from there because of the expense and difficulty in moving their products north to market areas. The advantage of dealing with Miami is the entrenched Latin culture, making business dealing simpler."

"New Orleans does not have the strong-hold on the Central American market only because they are their own worst enemy, charging high rates."

"But the primary object of this trip, was not only to promote Hancock County, but to promote individual businesses and expertise as a team. We were there to sell Mississippi."

"If I was approached by a businessman who presented a proposal I knew could be better served elsewhere, I would direct him to another in the group."

"The trip also allowed us to make contacts with others from within our own state. Con-Tech made a deal to ship out of Gulfport to a client in South America saving that client $2,000 per shipment."

Thibodeaux interjected, "Before this trip, I didn't know Gulfport had so much going out of it. I didn't know they could serve our client."

All three men complimented the Mississippi Economic Development group for the effective organization of the trip.

They said interpreters were made available throughout the hours of meetings conducted.

Appointments were scheduled and kept on time. Meetings with government agents, special groups and private business could never have been done in the time frame allowed should anyone in the group have attempted such a venture on their own.

Thibodeaux added, "In all the years I have traveled, this trip was the most organized and professional of all."

"Con-Tech has been doing business in Mexico and Ecuador. We want to expand into Central America."

"We have set up an international group for quoting materials and setting projects."

Thibodeaux added, in his opinion El Salvador will be a vital market area in Central American in the near future.

"There are millions of dollars being made available through the United States government. Once they get their security problems settled, it will be a most impressive area from a business stand point."

North stated, out of the 36 people he contacted as potential distributors, Bay Tech will probably select one or two to start as representatives of their product.

Olsen said, LACSA, a Costa Rican airline, expressed interest in establishing an alternate route for a commercial flight from Gulfport/Biloxi to Cancun, Mexico.

He also said he met with various freight forwarders in the hope of further promotion the Port Bienville facility and the future development of cargo shipments through Stennis Airport.

All in all the three local men found the trip to be an eye-opener. Pre-conceived notions were erased by the cross section of products presented as available for import, and by the professional courtesy extended to Hancock's own.

"Likewise," Olsen concluded, "I feel we presented to the people of Central America a view of Mississippi which they did not expect, one of a progressive state and vital Coastal area."

added, "will not be what you will pay tomorrow."

The board approved payment of $6,152 for four lift station pumps, ordered as an emergency purchase.

Utilities superintendent Mike Barnes explained all four pumps were needed for replacements. Two pumps were replaced at the Central and Waveland lift station, and two at the lift station on Conrad Street and Beach Boulevard.

Weidman questioned why so many pumps have burnt out within the past 18 months.

Barnes replied the most common cause of motor burnout is the presence of excessive grease within the sewerage lines.

Weidman asked if there was not an ordinance preventing restaurants from pouring grease down into the city sewer system. Gex said there was such a law, and restaurants must have grease traps to prevent spillage.

Barnes interjected the lift station which accumulates the most grease is the one serving Idlewood, a residential area. "We took 12 buckets out from the lift station there."

Approval was given to an adult cabbage ball league to use the Coleman/Central ball park on Wednesdays beginning at 7 p.m.

Weidman opposed, demanding assurance that the little league did not use the facility at that time.

The board approved the docket 2-1 with the exception of two items: the purchase of a golf cart for meter reading and an order of envelopes for city hall.

The board stipulated that the purchasing agent and bookkeeper verify the number of envelopes received and confirm whether or not the golf cart can be licensed for street use before the items are paid.

Weidman dissented on the docket.

Gex passed out copies of a revised noise ordinance proposal, along with copies of an explanation of decibel levels. The board took the ordinance under advisement.

Colson requested the board enter into executive session for the reason of personnel. The board returned to regular session and reported no action to have been taken.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Chinese cookery delights my palate, with its contrasts of texture and flavor; and one of my all-time favorite Chinese dishes is that old reliable, Sweet and Sour Pork.

Long years ago, when I cooked it for the first time, one of my then-small sons turned up his already turned-up Irish nose and observed, "Ugh, this tastes sweet, but is surely sour, too." He soon learned to relish this sauce, once he had recovered from the initial taste "shock."

This dish may, of course, be prepared ahead of time for the most part, and finished at table in a chafing dish or other serving dish or food warmer. It's an excellent choice, in larger quantity, of course, for a buffet supper or luncheon; and served without accompaniment of rice, is an excellent appetizer. Here's:

SWEET AND SOUR PORK

Approximately 1 lb. pork tenderloin (cut into cubes or strips, as you prefer, or use pork cutlets or center chops, also cubed or strips) 1/4 to 1/2 cup cooking oil

Flour and milk for batter
1/4 cup vinegar
1/2 cup syrup from can of pineapple chunks

Pineapple chunks
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
5 Tblsp. brown sugar
1 Tblsp. cornstarch
1 Tblsp. water
1 bell (green) pepper, in rings or chunks

Small piece ginger, or dash of powdered ginger

Pepper, salt, optional

Hot, cooked rice

Cut the pork into cubes or strips, as mentioned above, and coat with a flour and milk batter. Heat the oil, and brown the pork for just a few minutes, then drain the pan and set the pork aside.

Ladner/Moran reunion June 28

Descendants and friends of Ora Ladner and Juanita Moran Ladner of the Lakeshore community are invited to a family reunion Sunday, June 28.

The reunion will begin at 9 a.m. at the day use area pavilion (fenced-in area) of Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

Each family is asked to bring a covered dish, your own drinks and chairs.

Also, I sometimes substitute chicken for the pork, just as I substitute chicken cutlets for the more expensive veal. And, one of my friends, who has all but retired her cooking pots and forks and spoons, mixes up a bottle of sweet and sour sauce or dressing over all to make a sort of sweet and sour sauce! (Or she heads for a Chinese restaurant!)

Fire the starboard bowlines!

Safe recreational boating course draws record crowd at BWYC

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS
Instructor Jerry Anderson stood before the class and rattled off nautical terms—“knots, fathoms, longitude, lead-line, Mark Twain,” and “fire the starboard bowlines!”

Well, okay, I made up “fire the starboard bowlines,” but he really did say all the rest of it. Even “Mark Twain” was an 18th century river pilot’s term meaning “safe water.” Samuel Clemens, who was a river pilot before he became a writer, knew his stuff when it came to picking pen-names!

Anderson is an instructor with the United States Power Squadrons. The USPS is a non-profit, non-government organization of adult U.S. citizens who share a love of recreational boating. They are involved in numerous activities, but one of their most important (and widely recognized) functions is to sponsor a safe boating course.

This six-session-long program is designed to introduce the neophyte sailor to the joys—and potential dangers—of boating. Seasoned hands, who may be included to think the course is too basic, would be impressed by its comprehensive sections pertaining to navigation, piloting and rules of the road.

The Gulf Coast chapter of the USPS is currently holding a safe boating program at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. Dr. Terry Neumaster, director of the course, said, “We were really surprised by the high turnout.”

I asked Dr. Neumaster to elaborate on the differences between his group’s course and the similar instruction program offered by the U.S. Coast Guard.

He explained the basic curriculum is essentially the same, but said, “Instead of emphasizing regulations, compliance and patrol, we emphasize basic safety, seamanship and boat handling.”

He said the USPS sponsors two, and sometimes three, courses a year. There is no charge for the course; however the squadron does offer a package of textbooks and chart-plotting tools for $25. This is not required for participation, though students will find it makes the course much easier.

The U.S. boating fraternity is increasing in size every year, according to John Huntoon, public relations chairman. As the waterways become more crowded, safety problems are also increasing.

Many of these are analogous to land-based situations: Collisions, operating a vessel under the influence of alcohol or drugs and overcrowded waterways.

As is the case in motor vehicle operation, many boating hazards can be reduced by education and personal responsibility. The prime responsibility of anyone who operates a motor vessel is the safety of the passengers and other people on the water.

Many states are currently introducing legislation making it mandatory for anyone who operates a vessel to take the USPS or Coast Guard course. In those states which have no such requirement, it is nonetheless an excellent idea.

For this writer, covering this story was illuminating. My editor’s only instructions were to take a couple of photographs and write a brief caption. I figured the whole exercise would take no more than 15 minutes.

As a former commercial diver, offshore worker and seaman, I expected to be rather unimpressed by the whole affair.

Instead, I found myself sitting through the entire two-and-a-half-hour session and then signing up for the rest of the course.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The turtle finally figured out that if you really want to find the fish you gotta ask the experts. So, after a long and hard search this past week, I found the undisputed expert fish catcher of Turkey Bayou, Steve Ladner.

An in-depth interview was conducted with Steve Ladner, who, at age 13, had some good advice for the rest of the fishin' public. He says "the first thing you gotta do to catch fish is you gotta go fishin'."

Since this sounded like eminently sound advice, I asked Steve to continue.

He stated that he usually could get his dad to take him fishin' any time after he finished cutting his dad's lawn. Something about a reward for work.

Steve confided that he felt fishin' was definitely more fun than school. He goes to Hancock High School.

Steve was very emphatic about another point: he left no room for doubt that going out with girls was more fun than fishin'. Maybe he will overcome this problem in the future.... He might start taking the girls fishin'.

Anyway, Steve has been fishin' the Turkey Bayou area and has been murderizing the fish on an incoming tide. He states that his dad and uncle park along the tracks and walk to the bayou. The catch has been a whole big bunch of reds (no keepers) and oodles of specks, with about one-third keepers.

I was told that the best bait was a trade secret, but it looked like he was using beetles with a piece of shrimp added for smell.

Wade fishin' has been producing steady, if unspectacular, results this past week. Virtually all of the surf-fishermen that I talked to caught some specks. Quite a few of the specks caught were keepers, but most of them were school trout.

Reports indicate that the larger trout were caught on live bait, live croakers and mullet being the number one meal choice for the college size trout.

Live shrimp were producing the greatest catches of fish of all sizes. The live bait was being fished about 18 to 24 inches under a popping cork.

One interesting quirk of the trout this past week is that they, for the most part, did not strike hard. It seemed that the trout would just take the bait in their mouths and swim off.

You had to let them take your cork down and count to three before setting the hook. More times than not, if you set the hook too hard you would just jerk it out of Mr. Trout's mouth.

In other words, don't try to "break his neck" when you set the hook. The best results were obtained by just reeling fast after you count to three and setting the hook easy with line pressure instead of trying to "break his neck."

The best time to wade fish this past week was after a high tide started to fall. Some folks reported catching fish a couple of hours after noon on several days this past week.

One fisherman, Jerry Lochner, reported that he caught his fish between 2 and 3 p.m. He walked in with eight beauties that looked like they weighed between two and three pounds.

The biggest find this past week is soft shell crabs. Reports are coming in that 25 to 30 soft shell crabs at a time were caught in the grassy areas around Cedar Point and in the flats in front of the Paddle Wheel Restaurant in Clermont Harbor. The best time was around 11 p.m.

We had a pretty good moon this past week, so I guess the crabs were shedding their shells big time.

This week's wonderful wise words: Live bait is producing results.

Goin' out with girls better than fishin' — humbug, turtle.

Undersize speck ordinance starts for saltwater fishers

An ordinance allowing recreational saltwater fishermen to take up to five undersize speckled trout will go into effect July 1.

The ordinance, adopted in May by the Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, will allow people fishing in Mississippi waters to take five undersize speckled trout, provided that none of the trout be any smaller than 12 inches in length.

Mississippi law sets the size limit for speckled trout at 14 inches. The bag limit for speckled trout is 25 per day.

The commission action was taken based on a recommendation of the BMR Advisory Committee.

John Lambeth, chairman of the committee, says the measure is designed to make it easier for wade and pier fishermen, who often don't have the opportunity to catch 14-inch speckled trout.

Until last year, fishermen were allowed to keep five undersize speckled trout of any size.

The ordinance was changed to delete the undersize fish allowance after creel surveys showed that more than 60 percent of the speckled trout landed in Mississippi were undersized.

Also effective July 1, is an ordinance allowing recreational fishermen to land undersize speckle trout and redfish in Mississippi.

Conditions in the ordinance are that a fisherman bringing undersize fish into Mississippi must have a valid fishing license from the state in which they were caught, that fisherman cannot fish in Mississippi waters before or after he catches the fish in a neighboring state and that Mississippi bag limits to all fish landed in Mississippi.

Until July 1, fishermen are prohibited from having possession of any undersize fish in Mississippi.

The legal minimum length limit in Mississippi is 14 inches for speckled trout and 22 inches for redfish. The legal recreational minimum length limit in Louisiana is 12 inches for speckled trout and 16 inches for redfish.

Local teens find rewards in helping autistic Waveland child

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Sometimes Lizzie Richardson lives in a world of her own.

But through the help of a St. Stanislaus Brother and local teenagers, she is able to share in the world of others.

Lizzie, 7, is autistic. The incapacitating developmental disability is not noticeable at first glance. The casual observer views a perfectly formed, beautiful blue-eyed blonde.

It is in behavior the autism becomes apparent. She is, at times, withdrawn; her frustration level is low, and she has a difficult time mastering simple tasks.

Three years ago, Brother Canisius met Lizzie while volunteering at the Bay St. Louis Headstart Center. At that time, making eye contact with her was a small victory.

Through perseverance, and the help of many students from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy, Brother Canisius has coaxed Lizzie into interacting with others.

"I cannot begin to tell you the impact this has had on our lives," said her mother, Geri Richardson. "We have met so many fine young men and women who have given hours and hours to help Lizzie. They have also opened their hearts to her brother, Jody.

"It's like a big family bonded by a powerful love."

The SSC Key Club took on Lizzie's therapy as a project. They worked with cognitive and motor skills, and incorporated their own ideas, like using a broomstick to demonstrate 'over and under.'

The OLA ninth grade religion class, under the direction of Sister Elisa Baum, volunteered to work with Lizzie during the summer.

The simple activities—drawing lines from dot-to-dot, jump rope, kicking a ball, dressing paper dolls—require patience on the part of the girls, said Brother Canisius. "It is a learning experience for everyone involved."

"Over the years, I have come to see the influence my daughter has over every one who meets her," said Richardson. "When they help her master something, no matter how trivial it may seem to an outsider, they stand a little taller."

"Because of her inability to communicate in a normal way, she can never tell them how much they mean to her; but they know, somehow, they just know."

BSLLT Children's Theatre to produce three one-act plays

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Children's Theatre Summer Seminar will present three one-act plays on Saturday, June 27 at 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday, June 28 at 2:30 p.m.

The children will be performing "The Three Wishes," directed by Margaret Welz and Gina Johnson, "Sleeping Beauty," directed by Jason Mauffray, and "Tom Sawyer, Pirate" by Mark Twain, directed by Casey Bernard.

All student directors are under the supervision of Marie Bernard, BSLLT board member who is the creative force behind the Children's Theatre.

Ticket prices for the production will be $5 adults and $3 children.

Auditions set

Bernard will hold auditions for the advanced youth summer production.

Interested boys and girls ages 12-17 should be at the Playhouse on Boardman Avenue Monday, June 29 at 7 p.m.

Tentative date of the production is Friday, July 31 and Saturday, Aug. 1. Play title will be announced at the audition.

Fun time offered at Blahs-Breaker fair

Come one, come all, to the greatest entertainment value (free) in Hancock County.

This Saturday, from 10:30 a.m. until noon, children 6-12 years old will be treated to a Blahs-Breaker Fair at Bookends Bookstore in Bay St. Louis.

Projects and activities which feature hands-on involvement will be demonstrated.

There will be face painting and a magic show; mad science experiments and giant bubble blowing; knot tying and many other games, including Icky-Poo.

As summer begins and that inevitable moment of childhood boredom approaches, the Blahs-Breaker Fair offers ideas in creative entertainment.

Lemonade will be served. The public is invited to attend.

Coast Episcopal day camp benefits kids, counselors

Approximately 100 local children attended Coast Episcopal's free day camp, "All of God's Critters."

Now in its second year, the camp is designed to provide day camp experience to children entering second through fourth grades whose parents' resources or time might not otherwise allow them to attend.

It is also an outreach program for teenagers, who serve as camp counselors.

"We want to let the counselors have the experience of planning, organizing and running the activities," said Betsy Grant, Coast Episcopal Elementary principal.

Grant noted the most well-adjusted teens are those who are given responsibilities and are allowed to make choices in dealing with various situations.

The camp is a very 'hands on' experience for some 40 teenagers, who attend Coast Episcopal High School, St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy.

There are two 2-week sessions annually, and the children are entertained with a wide variety of projects and instruction.

Camp director Kyle Bennett said, "The camp is the brainchild of Betsy Grant."

Bennett said all the available space is taken for this summer, but parents interested in the program may contact him at 467-5125 for information about next year's program.

Grant expressed gratitude for "broad-based community support" from local grocery stores, churches and individuals whose donations provided lunches, snacks and transportation for the group.

LIVE THE LEGEND!

1991-92

On December 8, 1991 the Soviet republics of Russia, the Ukraine and Byelorussia signed an accord creating the Commonwealth of Independent States. The document's first paragraph said, in part, "That the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, as a subject of international law and geopolitical reality, is ceasing its existence."

During the following year, most other Soviet republics would sign the accord and millions of people would be unshackled from the communist system.

The world would never be the same again.

Meanwhile, in Hancock County . . .

The issue of Dockside Gambling remained unsettled after being approved in a close vote in December, 1990.

Gambling's opponents and proponents battled over regulations, sites and number of casinos.

The county's first license was issued to Bay Cove Marina (Casino Magic Corporation), which is scheduled to open Labor Day, 1992.

The Mississippi Army National Guard 1355th Supply and Service Company of Bay St. Louis and Ocean Springs participated in Operation Desert Shield/Storm and returned home to a hero's welcome.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.
